What are your solutions?

By Marione Martin

Twenty-six years ago on April 19, 1995, the world was focused on the bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah federal building in Oklahoma City. My daughter was attending Oklahoma Christian University in Edmond and sent a photo of the clouds from the blast rising above the skyline.

That bombing killed at least 168 people and injured more than 680 others. One-third of the building was destroyed, and it had to be demolished. The blast destroyed or damaged 324 other buildings within a 16-block radius.

Oklahoma communities sent first responders to the scene to help search for survivors. Rescue workers arrived from all over the U.S. Until the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks, the Oklahoma City bombing was the deadliest terrorist attack in the history of the U.S.

In addition to the horror of that day, the memory lingers of how our nation came together to help and heal. The National Memorial in Oklahoma City helps us remember.

Now our nation seems to be at war within itself. The trial of Minneapolis police officer Derek Chauvin continued until Tuesday afternoon as tensions rose nationwide. More than 4,000 National Guard troops and police were awaiting the verdict in Minnesota.

Can you imagine the stress the jurors felt? They didn't ask to give up a month of their lives, and whatever they decide, protests may erupt into the streets.

The jury includes a grandmother, a youth sports coach and an immigrant who said he wants to serve because "it is a service to my community and our country." The jury includes three Black men, one Black woman, and two women who identified themselves as multiracial. There are two white men and four white women. They range in age from their 20s to their 60s. The two alternate jurors are white women.

Juries usually take longer to decide cases that involve multiple charges. Civil cases, in which juries award damages, also take longer. Six-person juries decide faster than 12-person juries. Juries deliberating crimes against persons take longer to decide.

I've lived through other periods of dissension in our country. I was in school during the civil rights marches. Then there was Vietnam, the sit-ins and protests. I hope our country can overcome the current divisive spirit.

I received this column from Dr. Glenn Mollette that seems to sum up the problems and asks what we, and especially our elected officials, can do:

What are your solutions for America?

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

How do we solve the mass shootings? Do we take away all the guns? Or, do we require that every American carry a gun and be prepared to shoot back? Do we eliminate the assault rifles? Or, do we have more security guards at malls, grocery stores and work places carry assault rifles? We have a crisis in America with gun violence and mass shootings. What will Joe Biden and Congress do about this problem? Will they even attempt a solution? Mr. President and members of Congress, we need a solution.

How do we solve the ongoing Covid 19 crisis? Many have resumed life as though the problem is solved but in too many states people are still dying from the virus. A great effort has been made to solve this world pandemic. The creation of vaccines that seem to be working and an all-out effort to protect people with masks and distancing has made for an unforgettable year. But, what do we do now? It's not over. The virus and different strains of the virus are still very alive.

Common sense is critical. The world must go on. The government cannot spend the next year printing off stimulus money and paying people to stay home with nice unemployment checks. This mess is not over and we need a good game plan from our President and Congress.

The previous paragraph leads us to another crisis in this country. Businesses are trying to get back into business but the workers are few. Restaurant owners across the nation are crying because they can't find enough cooks and servers. Many of the former workers are collecting unemployment. They are collecting as much or more than they made showing up for work, and thus we have a shortage of willing workers.

Unemployment and the stimulus were a shot in the arm for the country but not one with lasting favorable results. Unemployment eventually ends and people must go back to work. In the meantime, many businesses in America are facing a crisis of trying to come back to life with very little help. We need a get-back-to-work plan from our President and Congress. Everybody cannot do their jobs at home. The factory worker, the restaurant worker, the medical community, public workers, and much more have to be able to safely leave their homes and do their jobs.

America has been filled with tension and pain this year over the senseless killing of George Floyd. We have viewed too many other senseless police shootings on national television. We don't need racial tension in this country. Most of the people in this country are good people and we can't let these incidents destroy our American family. However, we need a plan from Biden and Congress. What is your idea?

And then there is our crisis on the border. Our government needs to send a stronger message to those people south of the border. What will Congress do?

What would you do? Let your representatives and senators know.

MABEL ARCENIA (YARBROUGH) BOOR

Mabel Arcenia (Yarbrough) Boor was born March 5, 1943, to E. Fennell

Yarbrough and Elizabeth (Clark) Yarbrough in Decatur, Alabama. She passed from this life April 12, 2021, at Kiowa Hospital District Manor. She was surrounded by her husband, daughters, and other family members as she transitioned into the next life.

Mabel grew up in Decatur, Alabama, with her brother, Raymond and her many wonderful cousins who were like siblings to her. She enjoyed sharing the stories of the antics she, her brother, cousins, and neighborhood kids would get into. After graduating high school, she attended Florence State for a year before deciding to move west to Kansas. She lived with her cousin while working as a nurse aid at St. Francis Hospital in Wichita. It was a trip to a Sharon, Kansas, wedding dance with a co-worker who introduced Mabel to her spouse, Dennis, of nearly 58 years. They were married June 8, 1963, in Sharon. From that union, two daughters were born: Pam and Tammy. Mabel was a wonderful housewife, mother and grandmother. She loved her family and being with the grandchildren. They were all constantly giving each other a "hard time," but she still made them tow the line. They all had such a wonderful relationship collectively and individually.

Mabel sold Avon for many years. She loved visiting with the ladies and showing them all the new products. After that, Mabel and Dennis opened the Horseshoe Restaurant in 1989. She enjoyed interacting with the customers and did whatever needed done to keep things going smoothly from babysitting her grandchild to filling in as dishwasher. She also gained many praises for her dressing. Dennis would cook the turkey, and she would make the most wonderful dressing to accompany it. Many would ask for the recipe, but it was her love of making it that was the secret ingredient and made it so good.

Mabel is preceded in death by her brother, Raymond, and her parents, E. Fennell and Elizabeth Yarbrough.

She is survived by her husband, Dennis of Kiowa, Kansas; daughters, Pam Hess (Tony) of Alva, and Tammy Graves (Chuck) of Kiowa, Kansas; her grandchildren, Lane Hess, Dalton Hess, Kyle Graves (Jacy), and Austin Graves (Summer), and her great-grandchildren, Kase, Jaylee, Keaton, Taten, Tenley, and Trace.

Funeral mass for Mabel was held on Friday, April 16, 2021, at 10 a.m. at St John's Catholic Church in Kiowa, Kansas. Rosary will be Thursday, April 22, 2021, at 7 p.m. at the church. Burial will be at St. Boniface Catholic Cemetery near Sharon with arrangements by Lanman Funeral Home, Inc. of Kiowa.

Remembrances may be made shared with the family through Lanman Funeral Home at www.lanmanmemorials.com.

Memorials may be made to St. John's Catholic Church or Heartland Hospice through the funeral home.

DAWN MICHELLE DEMAREE GORDON

Dawn Michelle (Demaree) Gordon, daughter of Dr. Lowell Demaree, was born July 26, 1961, in Alva, and passed peacefully April 14, 2021, at the age of 59 years old.

Michelle graduated from Kiowa High School. She later attended Northern Oklahoma College and received an associate's degree in art. Wanting to pursue a career in art education, Michelle received her bachelor's degree in education with a minor in art from Northeastern Oklahoma State University in Tahlequah, Oklahoma.

She was an accomplished artist whose work was showcased in multiple publications. She enjoyed volunteering for various charities and events, a few of which were Kids' Space of Muskogee, the Saddle Club of Waynoka, and the Car Club of Alva, Oklahoma. She was a beloved instructor for the Arts Council of Tahlequah's annual Arts Camp. Michelle had a passion for many "projects" and will be remembered for her fondness of crafting with children. She loved camping, gardening and "loving on" her grandkids.

Michelle may be best remembered for her time as a massage therapist. Her knowledge and techniques helped to heal and comfort many.

She is preceded in death by her brother Lowell Brian Demaree, and sister Cheryl Lynn Demaree.

Michelle is survived by her father, two sisters, Sandy Gleyre and Theresa Blalock; four daughters, Christa Friare and husband Tino, and their two daughters Lyndee and Lanna of Alva, Stacia Cates and her husband Theron, two sons Trenton and Gabriel of Balko, Rachael Cunningham and Trevor, and their son River of Alva, and Cassie Gordon and her three children Micah, Andria and Leo; many other relatives and friends.

A celebration of life will be held at a later date. Cremation arrangements were under the direction of Marshall Funeral Home of Alva.

CAROL FAY (BARKER) KING

Home of Waynoka. Visitation and viewing will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday, April 23, 2021, at the Elm and Murrow Church of Christ.

Carol, daughter of the late Fred Lawrence and Flossie May (Corbin) Barker, was born on the family farm four miles east of Waynoka on February 20, 1933. Carol passed from this life on April 15, 2021, in Bartlesville, Oklahoma, at the age of 88 years, 1 month, and 23 days.

transferring to Waynoka High School. Carol enjoyed her time at Waynoka High School with her many friends and activities. Carol was honored to represent Waynoka High School as band queen and loved marching with the band at various events. She was also chosen as a Girls State delegate and treasured the memories and experiences this opportunity provided. Carol met the love of her life, Elvin Dee King, while in high school. Carol was determined to attend college. She told her daddy, "Save your money because I'm going to college." She graduated from Northwestern State College in Alva, Oklahoma, in 1954, completing her degree in three years. In 1973, the same year E. D. graduated high school, Carol received her master's degree in education from Northwestern Oklahoma State University.

Carol married her high school sweetheart, Elvin Dee King, May 26, 1953, at the Springdale Church of Christ east of Waynoka. Carol and Elvin spent the majority of their married life in Waynoka where she supported Elvin's career as a railroader and a rancher. They had two sons, Elvin Dee (E. D.) in 1954, and Kent Thomas in 1960. In 1969, Carol and Elvin welcomed Deborah Marie King from Maud Carpenter Children's Home into the family. Carol was a devoted mother to her children and supported them in their many events and activities.

In 1960, Waynoka Public Schools did not offer a kindergarten class, so Carol put her education to work and opened a private kindergarten to about 15 eager students. She was a gifted and creative teacher, teaching not only kindergarten, but also second and sixth grades. After 30 years of teaching, she retired in 1990.

Carol was a gifted artist, and many of her students remember her talent of incorporating the arts into her curriculum. Her students enjoyed May Day celebrations complete with a May pole dance, and Chinese tea ceremonies. She even taught her students to crochet! Carol said that not only was crocheting a wonderful art form, it also kept her students busy and focused during field trip bus rides and music program practices. On many occasions, Carol hosted her students in her home for their annual class Christmas party, serving homemade treats and using her finest serving pieces. She wanted her students to feel special.

Carol's love of history permeated to her students, especially the history of Waynoka. In 1988, five of Carol's students won the State History Day contest for Oklahoma and had the honor of participating in National History Day in Washington, D.C. Carol and Elvin loved escorting her students on their adventure in Washington, D.C., and introducing them to our nation's capital. She said it was one of the highlights of her career.

Carol was an excellent hostess. She enjoyed hosting many holiday meals and backyard barbecues for family and friends. Carol and Elvin loved to entertain. As a member of the Church of Christ, Carol taught Bible classes and hosted youth activities in her home. Carol enjoyed taking neighborhood children to Bible class and sponsoring and driving the youth group to youth rallies, skating parties and church camps throughout the area. Carol was always willing to serve the church in any way she could.

Carol was one of the founding members of the Waynoka En Avant Sorosis Club and the Waynoka Historical Society. She was directly involved in the preservation of the Santa Fe Depot and Harvey House, as well as various other community projects. She served on the board of the Northwestern Treatment Center. She was a member of the Oklahoma Historical Preservation Society, Retired Teachers of Oklahoma, and both the Waynoka and Northwestern Alumni Associations.

Carol was preceded in death by her parents, Fred and Flossie (Corbin) Barker; her mother and father in-law, Ivan and Lillie Mae (Freeman) King; her brother, Teddie Gene Barker; her sisters-in-law, Jean Barker and Rosemary Inman; her brothers-in-law, Rex Olson, Gerald Dean Inman, and Charles King; and her niece Lori (King) Brown.

Carol is survived by her sister, Sandra (Barker) Olson, her sister-in-law, Joyce King, her children, E. D. and Susan King, Dr. Kent and Lydia King, and Jerry and Deborah Bradford and family; her grandchildren, Dr. Kody and Ariel King, Major Kasey and Ashley King, Kendra (King) Lahmeyer and husband Jackson, Katie (King) Gustafson and husband Brody, Kellen King, Dr. Kaleb and Megan King, and Zabrian and Samantha King; great grandchildren, Stella, Melody and Rylan King, Sadie and Karis King, Ashton Mobley, Blitz Hughes, Hannah, Eva and Laken Lahmeyer, Park and Guy Gustafson, Sophia Sutton, Luna and Leilani King, numerous nieces, nephews and family members, and her beloved daughter-in-love, Abby King.

In lieu of flowers, contributions can be made to Carpenter Place Children's Home at 1501 N. Meridian Ave., Wichita Kansas 67203, or Children of the King in care of Chisholm Trail Church of Christ at 3204 W. Beech, Duncan, OK 73533 or Waynoka Historical Society at P.O. Box 193 or at 1383 Cleveland St., Waynoka, Oklahoma, 73860.

NANCY LEE (HUNTER) STUCKEY

Nancy Lee (Hunter) Stuckey, age 84, of Burlington, Oklahoma, passed away Monday evening, April 12, 2021, at 7:07 p.m.

She was preceded in death by her parents Ernest Melville Hunter and Ellen Isabel (Hendrickson) Hunter of Burlington, and her sister Carol Rosemary (Hunter) McOske and husband Perry McOske of Alva.

Nancy is survived by her husband, Harvie Max Stuckey, of the home, son Kent and husband Joseph (Watson) Stuckey of Wichita, Kansas; sister Melva Ellen (Hunter) and husband Robert Armbruster of Kiowa, Kansas; three nieces: Marsha and husband Jerry Smith of Alva; Cheryl and husband John Granzo of Belding, Michigan; Kate and husband Craig Maloney of Hooker; three nephews: Jeff and wife Charita McOske of Alva; Steve Stoddard of Flushing, Michigan; Andy Armbruster and husband Benjamin Smith of St. Louis, Missouri; and many grand and great-grand nieces and nephews.

Nancy was born at the Hunter home on December 24, 1936, in Gage, Ellis County, Oklahoma. Through her years of primary and secondary school she attended both Gage and Arnett schools, and graduated high school in Gage. She enrolled in college at Northwestern State College (which later became Northwestern Oklahoma State University in 1974) to pursue a bachelor's degree in education. During that time, her parents moved to Burlington in 1956 where her dad became superintendent, and her mom worked in the office of the Burlington School District.

After completing of her degree, Nancy began her teaching career in the Byron-Driftwood School District, where she taught elementary education for two years. She wanted to get experience as a teacher on her own before working under her dad. She then took a teaching position at Burlington School where she taught 41 years until her retirement. Nancy was certified to teach English/language arts, mathematics and library science classes, with most of her classes in the area of English/language arts. Her students learned spelling, reading, grammar, and literature. In her classes, students also learned respect, confidence, a greater command of the English language, and self-worth. Many of her students will remember specific instances that helped them become better people. For several years, she was director for the junior/senior plays, and she was also a sponsor for the Academic Bowl groups at Burlington School District.

After 43 years teaching, Nancy retired. She then became active in the Oklahoma Retired Teachers Association. During this time, she was president of the Alfalfa County Retired Teachers Association and the Northwest Oklahoma Retired Teachers district officer. This work had her traveling to most of the counties in northwest Oklahoma for their county meetings. Nancy got to know many other retired teachers in this time. She was always social and enjoyed meeting people. She also traveled to Oklahoma City for the executive meetings of the Oklahoma Retired Teachers Association. Nancy loved being able to help other retired teachers.

Nancy and her family were active in the Burlington Christian Church for many years. In later years, she and Max became members of the First Christian Church in Cherokee, where she taught a Sunday School class and loved working with the Christian Women's Fellowship (CWF) of the church. She was always cooking and bringing food to many of the church group events. Nancy had a strong faith in God and her Savior Jesus.

Nancy was proud of her heritage, of growing up in Ellis County. Even decades later, she remembered people, their families, their faces. Her clarity of detail was astounding. Her students and family would always go to Mrs. Stuckey for information about something she knew.

She was also fascinated with her ancestry in the Scottish Clan of Hunter, dating back to the 12th century. Nancy understood the balance of learning from your past, looking toward the future, and living in the moment. She touched many lives through her dedication to education and life of serving others.

Kris Gore hired as head coach for Ladybugs basketball

By Marione Martin

In a special meeting Monday, the Alva Board of Education voted to hire Kris Gore as head coach for the high school girls' basketball team. Gore was also hired as a certified teacher in language arts. Gore has 14 years' experience as a head coach with eight trips to state. She has 29 years of experience as a teacher.

Superintendent Tim Argo said Gore "symbolizes what excellence means." He thanked Alva High Principal Cory Smith, Washington Principal and AHS boys' basketball head coach Shane Feely, and school board member Tiffany Slater for their help with the interview process.

Gore was accompanied by several family members including her husband Kevin, her son Gabe and her daughter Grace (who will be a freshman next year).

After the vote, Gore spoke of her respect for the Ladybugs' record. She grew up attending school at Lomega and played basketball while attending Southwestern Oklahoma State University. She has coached at Canton, Leedey and most recently at Woodward. Gore described herself as a "very hard worker" explaining she grew up on a dairy farm.

Board members at the meeting included Jane McDermott, Shane Hansen, Tiffany Slater and Karen Koehn. Larry Parker was absent.

Joining Lawsuit

At the regular meeting April 5, the school board tabled a proposal to join in legal action against the Oklahoma State Board of Education until Supt. Argo could provide some answers to questions.

Argo said if Alva joined the lawsuit, they could opt out at any time. The lawsuit is scheduled to be filed on Friday, and 87 districts are currently parties to the suit, not including the separate actions filed by Oklahoma City and Tulsa districts.

He said this lawsuit goes to the Supreme Court of Oklahoma. The suits filed by Oklahoma City and Tulsa are filed in district court.

The cost for joining the lawsuit will be billed per ADA (average daily attendance) at an estimated dollar per student. The ADA for Alva is roughly 1,030, Argo said, so the cost would be about $1,030.

McDermott asked the difference between funding charter schools like Epic receive now and what they would receive after July 1. Argo said the ruling being disputed would allow charter schools to receive local ad valorem taxes voted on by local taxpayers to fund their schools. This would affect Alva's building fund and potentially cause Alva's state aid to be cut.

Slater made a motion to authorize the school district's attorney, in consultation with the Superintendent of Schools, to initiate legal action against the Oklahoma State Board of Education to address the equalization of funding as set forth in the state board's resolution approved at a special meeting on March 25, 2021. Hansen seconded the motion, and it passed unanimously.

Cherokee School Board approves reduction in force

By Kathleen Lourde

In a quiet special meeting Monday night – a public hearing on the school's reduction in force – the Cherokee school board voted to approve the measure, which reduced the school's staff by four: a librarian, a band instructor, an elementary school teacher, and a fifth grade math/math and reading remediation specialist.

The teachers in these positions are Byron Connor, Kelsey Chace, Amy Eckhardt and Hailey Cudmore.

The move was hardly a surprise; Superintendent Bryce Schanbacher had been warning the board – as well as the staff and community – for months that the reduction would be needed.

Drastic Revenue Drop Triggers Painful Decisions

"I just want to start by saying," said Schanbacher, "that when I was asked to step in back in September I wasn't sure really what we'd be getting into, but it didn't take long to realize that the financial situation here was pretty bleak, and that was due to several factors."

Between cuts in gross production and the tax protests, revenue is falling far short of what the school needs to operate. The school's estimate of needs for the year was $4.6 million, Schanbacher said later in the meeting; collections have been about half of that, and there are only two months to go in the fiscal year.

A big part of the shortfall is the drop in gross production. "In 2020, we collected $825,304,000 in gross production," Schanbacher later told the board. "At this point, we've only collected $267,844,000 with two months remaining."

Add the tax protests on top of this drop in gross production, and the school's revenue has dropped by more than $1 million in the current school year. That led to the realization that the school would have to make drastic cuts in expenditures to simply survive.

Cutting $1 Million

"It was pretty evident that the reduction in force was going to be necessary," he said, "so we tried to take some steps to avoid this situation. We were able to divert some costs in some areas, but it just wasn't going to be enough," as the school tries to plan for the next school year.

Schanbacher told the board that next year, revenue for the district could be about $3 million from all sources.

"With these reductions and resignations, and by absorbing positions, the estimated payroll for the district would be approximately $2.4 million for the 2021-22 school year," he said. "This doesn't leave much room for error when taking into consideration expenses the school will have to operate the school facilities, provide instructional resources and materials" and so forth. The school will have no carryover at all to bring into the next year.

Schanbacher began notifying staff that reductions in force would likely be coming back in December. He held numerous meetings with staff and others to identify which positions the school could best afford to eliminate.

"Since then, we've taken several other steps along the way," he said. "It's been kind of a long, drawn-out process. It's been very difficult. It's been difficult on others a lot more so than some, but as you can see this is a tight-knit group and what affects one affects all so this has been a hard process."

A Chance to Be Heard

Staff in those targeted positions were notified of what was happening and told of their right to speak at a public hearing. The hearing was Monday night.

None of the individuals affected by the reductions chose to speak in the meeting, however.

"I have received three waivers to this hearing," Schanbacher said, "one from Amy Eckhardt, one from Byron Connor and one from Hailey Cudmore." These individuals sent letters voluntarily agreeing to the reduction in force. Kelsey Chace, the other staff member affected, indicated to Schanbacher that she didn't intend to address the meeting.

After ensuring time was given for affected individuals to speak, Schanbacher read aloud his recommendation, which concluded "It's in the best interest of the district that the following positions be eliminated for the 2021-22 school year: district librarian, one elementary teacher, one part-time band instructor, one fifth grade math/junior high math remediation/reading intervention position."

After adjourning to an executive session to discuss the matter privately, the board returned to open session and – after following numerous rules of order – voted to approve the reduction in force.

"As I've said, this has been a long process; it's been a very difficult process," Schanbacher said. "Going forward, I hope that the things we're having to go through and the decisions we're making now are going to help lead our decision-making processes moving forward."

Three Newton-authored bills address voter eligibility, electioneering

By Rep. Carl Newton

We heard 115 Senate bills on the House Floor last week, and the Senate heard 117 House bills. Each chamber still has about 300 measures eligible to be considered by our April 22 third-reading deadline. Once bills pass both legislative chambers, they are sent to the governor for his consideration of signing them into law unless modified by the second chamber.

I am the House author of three Senate bills this year that would fix some problems in our election laws. Oklahoma did a great job during the election last fall, but Covid-19 exposed some weaknesses in our system.

Senate Bill 710 will help the secretary of the State Election Board identify voters who have moved out of state or are deceased. This cleaning up of our roles will ensure ballots are only issued to eligible voters.

Senate Bill 714 clarifies requirements for people voting by absentee ballot, including those who are in nursing homes or veterans' centers and those who are incapacitated or who have an emergency, such as childbirth or military deployment. During Covid, we learned some lessons about absentee ballots and found some areas where we needed to spell things out in greater detail in state statute.

Senate Bill 175 deals with electioneering within 300 feet from a polling place. The issue was in defining what constituted the exact location of a polling place. In the last election, we had a candidate campaigning in a line at a polling place. This specifies the 300 feet begins at the entry point of a polling place or 300 feet from the last person in line. Electioneering is defined as advocating directly for or against a candidate or question that is on the ballot currently being voted on, either verbally or with visual materials, signs or clothing, or collecting signatures for a petition to place an issue or question on a future ballot.

These bills still need to be voted on in the House before advancing to the governor.

On a final note, I want to thank Lt. Gov. Matt Pinnell for hosting two of his turkey hunts in Alva and Woodward recently. These hunts bring prospective business owners from around the world to see what our local communities have to offer in terms of potential business expansion. This could result in more jobs and a boom to our local economies.

Alva has been a host for the Lt. Governor's Turkey Hunt since 1989, making it one of the longest participating communities involved. Over the years, companies such as Vantage Plastics, SandRidge and Iofina have expanded to this town thanks to the community's support.

Woodward, meantime, has great air, highway and rail transportation making it an ideal location to showcase for manufacturers and service industries.

As always, please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions. You may reach me by email at carl.newton@okhouse.gov, or phone me at 405-557-7339. May God bless you and the State of Oklahoma.

Parade Marshall, jockey, rope man, altruistic, people person, entrepreneur

'The Rope Man' Buddy Williams is Kiowa Pioneer Days parade marshal Saturday

By Yvonne Miller

If you've ever met Buddy Williams, you'll most likely never forget him. Known as the "Rope Man" across the country, Williams has never met a stranger among the hundreds, probably thousands of people he's met at trade shows and fairs throughout the U.S.

Williams and Donna, his wife of almost 40 years, moved to Kiowa, Kansas in July 1987. They opened Custom Rope, a business that they moved from El Dorado. He said his business is nearly 50 years old which he began as Super Products that mainly manufactured tow ropes.

Kiowa's Chamber of Commerce selected Buddy as Kiowa's Pioneer Days parade marshal. Pioneer Days is this coming weekend, April 24-25. The parade starts Saturday at 11 a.m. Wearing a black top hat and Pioneer period clothing, he's usually in the parade or skit that follows. He might be driving his vintage car, a 1931 A coup, or wearing a fez, driving one of the Barber County Shriners miniature firewagons.

A Self-made Entrepreneur

Custom Rope continues in Kiowa making big blue tow ropes in various sizes. Donna said they currently employ at least 12 people from four counties and two states. They've employed 21 at their busiest time.

"Buddy has put a lot of people to work through the years," Donna said. He's given students and many others part-time work. He trained young people (including clients from Arrowhead West at Medicine Lodge). Williams said that in 1942 he was born in a tent. Proudly telling that he has no formal education, Williams learned to make ropes from his father while growing up in Chautauqua County Oklahoma. His family had a tree business and all the siblings had to learn to make ropes to use for moving branches. He started manufacturing the rope in Jay, Oklahoma.

That's why as a self-made man, Williams started an annual scholarship gift – $1,000 for a graduating senior

Senate Review

Senate, House pass bills to diffuse the winter storm's energy cost

By Senator Roland Pederson

We're now approaching the final week to approve policy measures during this legislative session. Last week, we approved about 120 of the 330 eligible measures from the House, so we'll be working this week to hear and vote on the remainder of these bills before our April 22 deadline.

Once we pass this deadline, our focus will shift to the Fiscal Year 2022 budget. While we've been working on it all year, these discussions will ramp up as legislative leaders finalize state spending for the next year.

I'm sure none of you have forgotten the devastating impacts of February's historic winter storm. I know I'm reminded every time I check my calves and see frostbitten ears and tails. The Senate and House took action this past week to pass two measures that will help Oklahomans with their energy bills and reduce the fallout from the storm.

These measures will address the price spike and ensure Oklahomans aren't charged thousands of dollars on a bill by spreading the increased costs, which are passed directly to the consumer from the energy companies, out over a course of 10 years by using bonds and other financing.

Without any action, a normal rate-regulated gas bill that's typically around $100 would be about $2,000 after the storm. The next month's bill would be about $1,200, and then the following few months would stairstep down after that. We know this astronomical price is just not doable for the vast majority of Oklahoma families, my own included. With the legislation we passed, the expected increase on a monthly gas bill is only about $10 per month.

April is Military Kids Month, and I was honored to present a resolution on the Senate floor last week designated April 15 as Purple Up! For Military Kids Day in Oklahoma. Our military families endure a lot to ensure our country's safety, and the sacrifice of our military kids is often overlooked. I was proud to bring attention to this very important matter on the Senate floor.

I enjoyed spending time with the military kids and their families at Vance Air Force Base this past week honoring Military Kids Month. I was able to present the Senate Concurrent Resolution that was adopted by my colleagues and personally thank many of the children for the sacrifice they make.

Thank you for allowing me to be your voice at our state Capitol. Please feel free to reach out if there is anything we can help you with. You can contact me at 405-521-5630 or via email at Roland.Pederson@oksenate.gov.

Woods County 522 EMS Board applications available

By Marione Martin

Last week, the Woods County commissioners approved an application form for those interested in serving on the county's 522 EMS District Board. County voters approved the 522 district, which will collect an ad valorem tax from county land owners for financial support of the three emergency medical services districts in the county at Alva, Freedom and Waynoka.

The Woods County commissioners are tasked with appointing a board to oversee the distribution of the revenue.

They are currently taking applications from Woods County residents.

Alva EMS Director Julie Dennis tells the newspaper that applications may be obtained from each of the EMS services in Alva, Freedom and Waynoka. Applications are also available from the Woods County Commissioners' office in the courthouse. Dennis said Waynoka Mayor Susan Bradford has applications available, and they may also be obtained from Alva Business Manager Angelica Brady at the city office. Other locations may be announced later.

Alfalfa County awards bid for bridge construction

By Stacy Sanborn

The Alfalfa County commissioners awarded a $71,019.94 bid Monday morning to Rick Dietz to construct a new bridge (#2101 located at CR Craig 610 and 600) in District 2. Marvin Woodall, Jay Hague and Mike Roach compared Dietz's bid against one from the Railroad Yard that was considerably higher and voted to award the less expensive one. Besides approving the usual previous meeting minutes, maintenance and operation warrants for payment, and blanket purchase orders, the commissioners approved a host of other items. Three were transfers of funds:

- A transfer of $120,000 (for salaries) from fairgrounds M&O 1310-4-8048-2005 to Fairgrounds Personal Services 1310-4-8048-1110
- A transfer of $8,000 (for salaries) from Sheriff Cash B M&O 1226-2-0400-2005 to Sheriff Cash B

Personal Services 1226-2-0400-1110

- A transfer of $30,000 (for salaries) from Cash 911 Sales Tax M&O 1332-2-3600-2005 to Cash 911 Sales Tax M&O 1332-2-3600-1110

The following few items were routine. One was a programming resolution for Bridge and Approaches replacing STP/BR low water crossing NS 252 EW 3.4 for District 1, another a private property access easement in District 2 for NE $\frac{1}{4}$ of 7-26-12 to clean and shape channel to correct the water flow. The commissioners then approved a new account listed on the agenda as "for Sheriff Sales Tax approve by Resolution 21-059 create new accounts: 1319-2-0400-1110 for Sheriff Sales Tax Personal Services and 1319-2-0400-2005 for Sheriff Sales Tax M&O." Lastly was approval given for a change order on a written quote for District 1 for 1-19-21 on a grader Building (PO #2302).

Jet resident injured in two-vehicle collision

By Marione Martin

A Jet resident was taken to the hospital following a two-vehicle collision in Garfield County Monday morning. Diana Cheslic, 69, of Jet, was transported by LIFE EMS to St. Mary's Hospital in Enid and then transferred to OU Medical in Oklahoma City where she was admitted in stable condition with trunk internal, arm and leg injuries.

She was a passenger in a 2012 Toyota Rav4 driven by her husband, Raymond Cheslic, 79, of Jet. He refused treatment at the scene. The Cheslics are former Alva residents.

The collision occurred at 9:30 a.m. on SH-132 at the SH-45 junction, approximately one mile south of Carrier.

According to the Oklahoma Highway Patrol report, Raymond Cheslic was southbound on the roadway and made a left turn in front of a northbound 2011 Chrysler Town and Country minivan driven by Lauren Hughes, 37, of Kansas City, Missouri.

Passengers in the minivan included Jordan Hughes, 33; Thea Ekis, 28; and Tarah Anderson, 33, all of Kansas City, Missouri. All the occupants of the minivan refused treatment at the scene.

The OHP report states all involved were wearing seatbelts, and the cause of the collision was an improper left turn.

Trooper Randy McCullough of the Woods County detachment of Troop J investigated, assisted by Lt. Ken Jordan, Carrier Fire Department, Garfield County Sheriff's Office and Garfield County Emergency Management.

Oklahoma Senate sends 3 anti-abortion bills to governor

By Sean Murphy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma Senate voted Tuesday in favor of three anti-abortion bills, including ones that would criminalize the procedure in certain cases and cost providers their medical licenses for performing them, sending the measures to the governor for his expected approval.

The Republican-controlled Senate passed measures requiring physicians who perform abortions to be certified in obstetrics and gynecology, adding performing an abortion to the list of unprofessional conduct by doctors and prohibiting abortions if a fetal heartbeat can be detected.

In the case of the fetal-heartbeat bill, any doctor who performs an abortion after detecting a heartbeat would be guilty of homicide.

Embryonic cardiac activity can be detected using vaginal ultrasounds as early as 6 weeks, before many women know they are pregnant. Less-invasive abdominal ultrasounds can detect a heartbeat a few weeks later.

The measures head to Republican Gov. Kevin Stitt, who previously said he would sign any anti-abortion bills that

VIEW OF A KIOWA PIONEER DAYS CATTLE DRIVE DOWN MAIN STREET IN 2016 – One thing about it, each year it's fun to see if the cowboys can keep the longhorns corralled on their trip through the parade route down Main Street in Kiowa during Pioneer Days. Photo by Yvonne Miller

Decorate your golf cart with western theme for Kiowa's Pioneer Days Parade Saturday

Weekend of events – steer wrestling and team roping with concession stand; Dance at The Plum; Bake sale; Masonic breakfast

By Yvonne Miller

Sounds like the weather could be beautiful this weekend for Kiowa's Annual Pioneer Days. Canceled last year because of the Covid pandemic, the fun weekend is a welcome return to normalcy.

Bev Miller truly started Pioneer Days when she planned a surprise roping for her cowboy husband John Miller's 40th birthday. Now the celebration has gone on for decades. Bev said John was bragging about the volunteers who just step forward to do whatever needs to be done.

The events kick off Saturday morning with a hearty breakfast at the Masonic Lodge from 6:30 to 9 a.m. Don't miss dropping by the Chief Theater for the Kiowa Historical Society's Bake Sale at 9 a.m.

The Chamber of Commerce organizes Kiowa's Pioneer Days Parade, which starts at 11 a.m. The chamber will give a prize for the golf cart that is decorated with the best western theme. A highlight of the parade is when cowboys herd some of the roping stock down Main Street without letting the steers escape. Be sure and read the article in the Newsgram this week about the Parade Marshal Buddy "Rope Man" Williams.

Immediately following the parade gather at the city lot at 7th and Main for an always humorous skit in front of the Pioneer "town." Writer and creator Donna Williams said this year the skit is entitled "Hard Beginnings." She described the skit as "the short story of the novel of Kiowa's pioneers." Ten of the Williams grandchildren are in the skit Donna said of a time when it's difficult to recruit characters.

Then the heart of Pioneer Days begins at 1 p.m., with Steer Wrestling out at John Miller's arena on the southeast corner of Kiowa. You'll find Pioneer grub there at the Shriner's concession stand with their signature grilled corn on the cob, burgers and more.

In the evening head 'em on out to The Plum Thickett bar and restaurant. There John Miller, some of his out-of-town friends and local Doug Swonger will be singing and strummin' their guitars for you. Miller is the last of The Three Amigos, who performed musical numbers together for years at countless Pioneer Days celebrations. Sadly, Steve Mindeman of Apache, Oklahoma, passed away last year from cancer. Rex Gates no longer participates. Miller promises you a fun performance Saturday night.

The weekend wraps up with an afternoon of team roping Sunday starting at 1 p.m. at Miller's Arena.

New election to be held for Freedom Trustee 3

Alva recount produces no change

By Marione Martin

A hearing before District Judge Justin Eilers last Wednesday, April 14, determined there was no way to determine with mathematical certainty the outcome of the race between incumbent Shad Brackin and challenger Michelle Shelite in the Town of Freedom election held April 6.

The result of the election was a tie vote of 45 each. However, the election board determined that one person who voted in the election actually lived outside the Freedom city limits and was therefore ineligible. There was no way to determine how this person voted.

Woods County Election Board Secretary Sandra Koehn said she will notify Gov. Kevin Stitt of the situation, and the governor will need to set a special election date for the Trustee 3 position in Freedom.

In the manual recount of Alva Ward 4 Office 1 voting, also held Wednesday, there was no change in the voting numbers. Greg Bowman won the position by seven votes. The three candidates in the race each had more than 30 percent of the total votes, but this race is decided by a simple majority.

Bowman took his seat on the council Monday night after being administered the oath of office. Also taking the oath and beginning their new terms on the council were Daniel Winters, Taylor Dowling and Troy Brooks. Trent Goss was sworn in for another term as city treasurer.

Oklahoma seeks coordination on Indigenous peoples cold cases

By Ken Miller

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma Gov. Kevin Stitt on Tuesday signed into law a bill intended to coordinate state and federal law enforcement efforts when investigating missing or murdered Indigenous people.

The law requires the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation to coordinate with the U.S. Attorney's Office and the U.S. Department of Justice to obtain federal funding and coordinate their efforts to gather information and data about missing and murdered indigenous people in Oklahoma.

The OSBI would create an Office of Liaison to develop protocols for law enforcement response to reports of missing or slain Native Americans and to assist victims' families in understanding the legal processes.

"Far too often when a Native (American) goes missing or is found murdered their families have to navigate a complex checkerboard of jurisdiction," Stitt said. "This bill will ensure a more coordinated response" between state and federal agencies.

Known as Ida's law, it is named for 29-year-old Ida Beard of El Reno, a citizen of the Cheyenne and Arapaho Tribes, who disappeared in 2015 and has never been found.

Beard's cousin, LaRenda Morgan, said the law leaves her with a sense of gratitude.

"I'm just very, very grateful, thankful," Morgan said. "Thank you so much, all of you, for showing compassion and showing that you care about Indian Country."

In 2019, then U.S. Attorney General William Barr announced a nationwide plan to address missing and slain Native American women. Missing Native American men and boys were added to the plan in 2020.

The project includes $1.5 million to hire specialized coordinators in 11 U.S. attorney's offices across the U.S. with significant Indian Country caseloads, which include Oklahoma. The coordinators are to develop protocols for a better law enforcement response to missing persons cases.

U.S. attorneys and tribal leaders in Oklahoma and Montana last year announced they will participate in pilot projects to better coordinate investigative efforts surrounding cases of missing or murdered Indigenous peoples.

An Associated Press investigation in 2018 found that nobody knows precisely how many cases of missing and murdered Native American women happen nationwide because many go unreported, others aren't well documented and no government database specifically tracks them.

Kiowa's City Council sets city-wide clean up, sizable water project bill paid, food bank to move

City tree dump to be open first two Saturdays in May

By Yvonne Miller

All members attended the Kiowa City Council meeting April 12: Mayor Bill Watson and councilmen B.J. Duvall, Brian Hill, R.L. Simpson, Jason Thayer and Tom Wells. City Administrator Sam Demel, City Attorney Brandon Ritcha and City Clerk Kady Tucker also sat at the table in the council chambers.

Brian Foster with BG Consultants came to introduce himself to the council as he will take the project from this point, replacing engineer Sam Johnson. Foster held a progress meeting for the water project in the afternoon, the same day as the evening council meeting.

Foster requested and received the council's approval to pay an invoice of $1,830,857.56 for stock materials for the project such as PBC pipe, paint, metal fittings, etc.

Representing the South Barber Ministerial Alliance, Mike Mayberry (of the Congregational Church) addressed the council about the food bank located in a tiny room at Kiowa's Community Building. Methodist Minister Margaret Johnson also attended on behalf of the ministerial alliance. The alliance would like council's approval to move into the larger room across the hall which was utilized by the Barber County Health Department who has not been traveling. Mayberry said the past year with the Covid pandemic the food bank experienced "growing pains."

The council granted approval for the food bank to utilize the larger room that was previously used by the health department.

City-wide clean up day – First week of May for the north side of town from Main Street; second week of May for south side of town. The council discussed customers' trash containers that are too heavy for trash crews to lift and not hurt their back. They considered numerous options. The council discussed enforcing the giving of a warning if the customer has over two trash cans and then charging for the additional trash.

The subject will be discussed at a future meeting.

Jeff Bryan discussed a new vehicle plan for the city that is uniquely his for Bryan Chevrolet. He gives a "huge discounted price" on the first vehicle. Then the city would need to trade vehicles after six months and before one year. The vehicle must have under 10,000 miles. He said the first oil change is free and a second one won't be needed because of the trade. The customer won't have to pay for anything because the vehicle will be under warranty, he explained. "I don't want the city to have to pay more than they have to for a vehicle. It's the least I can do for my community."

Demel presented information about a mini excavator. Council wants more information.

The excessively high electric bill during the polar vortex in February was once again discussed by council. City paid their usual bill plus 25 percent. To recoup those charges they are to prepare a resolution for the next meeting.

The council voted to prepare a resolution to set the meter charge to pay for the new meters: a flat meter charge of $2; .4 cents per kilowatt, residential; .2 cents per kilowatt, commercial. The charge expires in July.

The KMEA Board of Director representative from council is City Administrator Demel; and alternate Mayor Watson as approved by council.

An agenda item was solar research. This involves possibly buying a third generator. Using part solar and not all electric could reduce costs by 30 percent. Demel will bring more information back to a future meeting.

Kiowa City Reports

City Superintendent John Duvall gave his report to the council. He requested and received council approval for $7,067 for generator repair with Foley of Wichita. Council approved the purchase of new 40 foot poles for a total of $16,500.

Duvall said he would like to start fogging for mosquitoes on Wednesday evenings. The council said to fog at his discretion.

Fire Chief Bill Duvall said things are going pretty well. As always he asked if the council knows what the fire budget is. The answer was basically "not yet" until the overall budget is finished. Duvall said the fire department's previous year budget was $50,000.

Police Chief Travis Petersen said he needs shooting training and there is a KLETC training in May. When asked by the council if he needs another officer, Petersen said he is covering calls so doesn't need more help at this time. The mayor said he thinks the city needs a second officer. The chief said you have to justify the need.

The council approved a resolution to adopt water rates as previously discussed.

Demel offered to open the city's tree dump east of Kiowa the first and second Saturdays of May. It will be open from 7:30 a.m. to noon.

Following two executive sessions, the council took no action. The discussions were for a possible land purchase and non-elected personnel.

AP sources: Biden to pledge halving greenhouse gases by 2030

By Matthew Daly

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Joe Biden will pledge to cut U.S. greenhouse gas emissions at least in half by 2030 as he convenes a virtual climate summit with 40 world leaders, according to three people with knowledge of the White House plans.

The 50% target would nearly double the nation's previous commitment and help the Biden administration prod other countries for ambitious emissions cuts as well. The proposal would require dramatic changes in the power and transportation sectors, including significant increases in renewable energy such as wind and solar power and steep cuts in emissions from fossil fuels such as coal and oil.

The nonbinding but symbolically important pledge is a key element of the two-day summit, which begins Thursday as world leaders gather online to share strategies to combat climate change.

The emissions target has been eagerly awaited by all sides of the climate debate. It will signal how aggressively Biden wants to move on global warming, a divisive and expensive issue that has riled Republicans to complain about job-killing government overreach even as some on the left worry Biden has not gone far enough to address a profound threat to the planet.

The three people who know about the White House plans spoke on condition of anonymity on Tuesday because they were not authorized to discuss the pledge ahead of Biden's announcement.

Biden has sought to ensure that the 2030 goal, known as a Nationally Determined Contribution, or NDC, is aggressive enough to have a tangible impact on climate change efforts — not only in the U.S. but throughout the world — while also being achievable under a closely divided Congress.

The climate target is a key requirement of the 2015 Paris climate agreement, which Biden rejoined on his first day in office. It's also an important marker as Biden moves toward his ultimate goal of net-zero carbon emissions by 2050.

Scientists, environmental groups and even business leaders had called on Biden to set a target that would cut U.S. greenhouse gas emissions by at least 50% below 2005 levels by 2030.

"Wow. That's ambition with a capital A," Georgia Tech climate scientist Kim Cobb said Tuesday after learning of Biden's plans. "That target would put us roughly in line with the most ambitious emissions reductions targets" projected by scientists and environmentalists.

Cobb, like other experts, said details of Biden's strategy will be crucial, "because those details will likely determine whether this ambitious new goal can be translated into policy. The clock is ticking fast, environmentally and politically."

Pennsylvania State University climate scientist Michael Mann said the 50% goal "is precisely what is needed ... an actionable goal within the next decade that puts us on the path toward limiting warming below a catastrophic 1.5 degrees Celsius" globally.

The climate summit that Biden is hosting is among his first international actions since the United States officially returned to the Paris accord. The U.S. withdrawal from the global pact under former President Donald Trump was part of Trump's effort to step away from global allegiances in general and his oft-stated but false view that global warming was a hoax or at least an overstated claim by the world's scientists.

Biden, by contrast, has made action on climate change a centerpiece of his presidency. He has also paused new oil and gas drilling on federal lands and proposed a $2.3 trillion infrastructure plan that would remake the U.S. power grid and add 500,000 charging stations for electric vehicles, among other actions intended to sharply cut fossil fuel pollution that contributes to global warming.

The summit is "the starting gun for climate diplomacy" after a four-year "hiatus" under Trump, said Larsen, now a director at the Rhodium Group, an independent research firm.

Former Secretary of State John Kerry, Biden's top climate envoy, has been pressing global leaders, including his counterpart in China, for commitments and alliances on climate efforts.

Sen. Ed Markey, a Massachusetts Democrat who reintroduced the Green New Deal on Tuesday with Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, D-N.Y., said the 50% target was appropriate to meet the scope and scale of the climate crisis.

"The United States must be an undeniable global leader in climate action," Markey said Tuesday. "We cannot preach temperance from a barstool and not pay our fair share when approximately 40% of all the excess carbon dioxide in the atmosphere is red, white and blue."

A 50% reduction by 2030 is "technically feasible and well within our reach," Markey added. "We can and should fight to pass legislation and deploy funding that will allow us to exceed that target."

Sen. John Barrasso, R-Wyo., the top Republican on the Senate Energy Committee, said Biden's pledge would set "punishing targets" for the U.S. even as adversaries such as China and Russia "continue to increase emissions at will. The last thing the economy needs is higher energy prices and fewer jobs, but that's exactly what we're going to get."

Like other nations, the U.S. goal includes methane and some hydrofluorocarbon gases that trap more heat but don't last as long as carbon dioxide.

The 50% pledge was first reported by The Washington Post.

Senate

the Legislature sends him.

Sen. Julie Daniels, a Bartlesville Republican who sponsored two of the bills, said the goal is to save the lives of unborn babies.

"This has been a hard-fought battle, and no one, single bill will end abortion in our state," Daniels said in a statement. "But each of these measures represents one more step in our journey to defend the sanctity of life."

There were 4,424 abortions performed in Oklahoma in 2019, the most recent year for which data is available, according to the state Department of Health.

Julie Burkhart, who opened a health clinic that provides abortion services in Oklahoma five years ago, described the bills as "radical and unconstitutional" and likely to be tossed out by the courts.

"I would rather they spend their time on restoring access to health care to Oklahomans than wasting time on restricting the ability of people to get safe and quality health care," Burkhart said.

In the past, the Legislature has passed several laws aimed at banning or limiting abortion access, and courts have overturned many of them.

All three bills were passed mostly along party lines, with Democrats in opposition.

Arizona third-grader holds food drives to help in pandemic

By Cheyanne Mumphrey

CHANDLER, Ariz. (AP) — Neighbors walked by during their morning stroll, passing families waved from their bikes and drivers slowed down long enough to read the hand-drawn sign — "Dylan's Food Drive."

The poster was taped to two PVC pipes that were stuck inside construction cones for support.

It was a typical scene for 8-year-old Dylan Pfeifer, who has been staging food drives from his home in metro Phoenix in response to the pandemic.

"It started because I wanted to give internet to people," he said, explaining that he had transitioned into virtual learning at Chandler Traditional Academy's Independence Campus in Chandler. He heard on the news that some students around the U.S. were having a hard time taking advantage of virtual learning because they didn't have internet.

"My mom said it was going to be hard to provide internet, so we decided to do food drives," he said.

Each drive is the culmination of hours of work that involves drawing posters, going door-to-door to hand out flyers and working with his mother to post information on Facebook.

Dylan has hosted three drives from his home in Chandler, about 20 miles (32 kilometers) southeast of Phoenix. He said he is planning his next one in June, when summer vacation begins.

"I would plan one every day if I could," he said.

Dylan says he has collected more than 1,000 cans and boxes of nonperishable food and more than $900 in donations. On its website, St. Mary's Food Bank in Phoenix says it can convert $1 into seven meals, meaning Dylan has been able to provide more than 6,500 meals on just monetary donations.

"It's rare that you see kids at Dylan's age who have a handle on what the problem is in their community, the people around them who are affected by it, and have the courage to do something about it," said Jerry Brown, director of media relations at St. Mary's Food Bank Alliance.

Erin Pfeifer said the best part for her, as his mother, has been watching Dylan grow despite the isolation caused by the pandemic.

"It's been hard to interact with people, especially now, so this provides a safe way to do that. I just wanted to provide him a way to make an impact," she said.

His father, Nick Pfeifer, agreed, saying it has been wonderful watching Dylan grow. Younger sister Evelyn Pfeifer also loves to be around the drives. The parents said she spends most of her time playing outside with the neighbor's children during the efforts.

After the first two drives, Erin and Dylan Pfeifer have spent time volunteering at St. Mary's Food Bank. They attended a couple of food-packing events at the facility where community donations are sorted and packed for residents and families in need.

"I volunteer because it helps the community," Dylan said. "The hardest part is setting up and waiting. As cars come I always think — does that one have food?"

Dylan could be doing lots of things with his time but chooses to be outside in the sunny Phoenix spring weather waiting for people to stop by, said Denise Sandy-Sanchez, who was Dylan's second-grade teacher last year.

"It is inspiring because he is just an 8-year-old boy," Sandy-Sanchez said after donating boxes of food at his most recent drive.

"I hope you have room in your chest for that growing heart of yours," she told him.

His grandmother Janice McGrew, who volunteered at Habitat for Humanity for more than 10 years, said Dylan comes from a giving family.

"I would tell other kids who wanted to host food drives, to just do it!" he said.

Are you the picture of health?

"You might look and feel fine, but you need to get the inside story.

Colorectal cancer is one cancer you can prevent."

from both South Barber in Kiowa and North Barber in Medicine Lodge. The money is for technical or other hands-on training instead of higher education.

Williams is known for his advice, "You can do it if you think you can do it."

He's always worked for himself and grew his business to shipping tow ropes all over the United States. Custom Rope has also sent their products to Canada, Russia, Aruba and Afghanistan, but mainly in the U.S.

"We've made a lot of friends over the years," Donna said. The couple said they feel blessed that so many former employees come back to see them and visit. "Anyone who works for us signs a non-competition clause," he said.

A Favorite Venue to Sell His Ropes, Dollywood

He's traveled to trade shows and state fairs throughout America selling his strong ropes. "I've got the only tow rope that hasn't broken and killed someone. We have zero liability suits in over 40 years." He recalls that in his early days in Kiowa he sold those ropes to local businesses Tucker's farm store and Humphrey's implement.

A favorite trade show location is Dollywood where he's sold ropes for 12 years. At state fairs, Williams said every governor in those states has appeared at his booth to make a rope. He's collected antique rope making machines for decades. Having kids and adults stop by and make a rope at his booth is a main attraction. He's received plaques at shows for having the most visitors at his booth. Besides the ropes, Williams is an attraction himself in his period dress and friendly demeanor.

Laughing, Donna said of her husband, "He's a good talker – not so sure he is a good listener!"

In their blended family, he and Donna have nine children, 24 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Throughout the years some of the grandchildren got to attend the shows, fairs and events they call "mini vacations with their Papa." Their football-playing granddaughter Aydan Bryan, age 14, is a 9th grader at Medicine Lodge. She'll help her Papa at his booth during the Medicine Lodge Peace Treaty this Sept. 24–26. On Saturday, 10 of the Williams grandchildren will be in the Pioneer Days skit.

Williams proudly tells that some of his ropes were used in John Wayne movies. He made ropes for famed cowboy Ben Johnson, founder of the Pawhuska Steer Roping.

Liking to help young people. Williams said that Bob Cox who runs The Chief Theater in Kiowa gave him some business. A book read at the elementary was turned into a movie and he made it possible for all the kids to see it at the theater. He provided pizza and money so the kids could buy snacks at the movie. Donna said he has a scrapbook of those type of projects he's organized at numerous places.

Looking back at the Covid-10 pandemic of 2020, Williams said they received orders as usual because ropes are essential. However, it was a hard year because it was difficult to get needed supplies to manufacture ropes and to ship out product.

What many people may not know about Williams is that he was a jockey who raced horses many years and was licensed in 23 states. Of small stature, he rode in Greenwood County at Eureka and also at the Anthony Downs for 25 years. He said that the largest stage he ever got to compete in was the Belmont Stakes in New York. At a horse race in Louisiana, he told the people if he won he'd donate 10 percent of his winnings to a boy's home – he won and his gift was about $7,000, he told proudly.

Donna said to this day, "Buddy has to have interaction with people." If you congratulate him Saturday at the parade, be prepared to visit awhile.
