Interviewing for a job

By Marione Martin

I've been thinking about job interviews lately. We've been a little understaffed in the news reporting area, and we're losing a photographer at the end of this month. We're hoping to hire someone on a part-time basis to fill in these gaps.

This started me thinking about how people prepare to be interviewed for a job. I have very little experience in that area, having worked for family in all but two jobs. In one of those, I was "inherited" when my in-laws sold the radio station where I was employed, and I had a new boss.

I've learned more from watching my daughter prepare for job opportunities. She'd send her resume to me and other people for proofreading and critique. Before applying, she'd have researched the company to see if the job would be a good fit. If she was called in for an interview, she'd do lots more preparation, think about questions she might be asked and carefully plan her clothing and grooming. She freely admits she's an "over-preparer" in this area.

She has also coached her children when they began looking for jobs while in high school. All resumes had to be submitted to her scrutiny and generally had to be rewritten. She insisted that they dress well, even if they were just dropping off a resume. Then she coached them on interview skills and grooming. They quickly learned her coaching paid off.

My daughter works for the Spears School of Business at Oklahoma State University. A few months ago, her department was involved in producing a video to help business students in job interviews. She showed me some short clips and described the fun some of the professors had in playing the parts of terrible interviewees. She expressed dismay that a majority of college students have never received help in interviewing skills. The professors were working to rectify this oversight.

A number of years ago, a man came in the newspaper office to ask about a job as a news reporter. We did not have any openings at the time, but I would never have considered this man for employment. He looked like he had just finished digging a ditch. When he shook my hand, I saw his overly-long fingernails were caked with dirt. His clothes also needed a good wash. Later, I saw some of that man's reporting in another newspaper and was surprised at his ability. Hopefully he cleaned up well!

We used to give most job candidates a spelling test. It was a list of 25 or 30 words that are frequently misspelled. Since the words were difficult, we considered a 50 percent score to be a passing grade. In the last 15 years, we stopped giving the test. People have become dependent on computer spell checking programs, and fewer applicants could pass our test.

Although computers seem to have a bad influence on spelling ability, the internet provides a good resource when looking for tips on job interviews. I found a wealth of information. One writer provided a checklist:

- Do extensive research on the company to understand the business and anticipate the kinds of questions you may be asked.

- Research the people who will be interviewing you. The goal is to learn about your interviewer's background and interests and role in the company to build rapport.

- Anticipate questions you might be asked. My husband used to ask interviewees what he would like best about them as an employee. Then he'd ask what he would like least. It's a chance to describe your strengths and your weaknesses.

- Conduct a mock interview. Enlist friends or family members, especially if they have experience interviewing employees.

- Use or become familiar with the company's products or services. It shows you went an extra step in preparing for the interview.

- Review your Facebook and other social media postings. Employers often look you up on social media sites to get information and background.

- Dress appropriately for the interview. If you're interviewing to work as a mechanic, you probably won't need to wear a suit. However, it's better to dress more formally for your interview than you would on the job. Whatever style you choose, show up neat, clean and groomed.

- Arrive early and prepared. But don't show up more than five or ten minutes early. Turn off your cell phone during the interview so you're not interrupted.

- Bring the necessary documents. These include copies of your resume, reference letters and work samples. You might want to bring a list of questions you have for the interviewer about the job.

Even if your job interview doesn't result in an offer of employment, consider it good practice for the next time.

Thank you to everyone for their well wishes & generosity during my recent illness. It was greatly appreciated!

ENJ Financial makes donation for Bud Rose Park

The City of Alva received a donation of $2,500 Monday night from ENJ Financial for future renovations to Alva's Bud Rose Park in an effort to revitalize the community. Fawn Kingcade and Timothy James, on behalf of ENJ Financial, presented the check to the chair of Alva Parks and Buildings Committee, Mary Hamilton, along with Mayor Kelly Parker.

The park, on Logan Street, has been of particular interest this year for local citizens interested in updating and renovating the space. Some of the community visions for the park include sidewalks for running and walking, a basketball court, a sand volleyball court, picnic tables, and even a family-friendly fitness court.

ENJ Financial staff members said they recognize the importance of having a safe space for youth and families to spend time together. "Parks are known to promote physical and social health benefits, not only for young people, but the senior citizen demographic as well," said ENJ Financial's President and Senior Financial Advisor, Kindsey Ely. "Whatever we can do to make a positive impact in a child's life, a family's life, in our community, we'll do."

LOIS LEA STERBA

Memorial services for Lois Lea Sterba will be 2 p.m. Wednesday, October 23, 2019, at the Alva Church of God with Rev. Bob Brown officiating. There will be a private interment for the family prior to the service under the direction of Marshall Funeral Home of Alva.

Lois Lea Sterba, daughter of the late Floyd William and Sophia Emma (Lavell) Andrews, was born August 19, 1934, at McDonald, Kansas, and passed away October 19, 2019, at Alva, Oklahoma, at the age of 85 years and 2 months.

Lois graduated high school in Atwood, Colorado, and attended college in Greely, Colorado. She was united in marriage to "JB" Beecham where they operated a Sears store. To this union five sons were born.

On December 26, 1999, she was united in marriage to Donald Elliot Sterba in Lafayette, Colorado. They moved to Alva, Oklahoma, where she worked at Alva State Bank. She obtained her real estate license and started working for Gene Filson Real Estate as an agent and broker. When Gene passed away, she bought the company and later it was affiliated with United Country Real Estate.

Besides her parents, she was preceded in death by her son, Scott Andrew Beecham; and her brother, Keith Andrew.

Lois is survived by her husband, Don, of Alva; four sons, Michael Jay Beecham and wife Phyllis (of La Junta, Colorado), Alan Clay Beecham and wife Becky (of Del Norte, Colorado), David Layne Beecham (of Broken Arrow, Oklahoma), and Evan Kerry Beecham and wife Sue (of Hillrose, Colorado); and one sister, Lorene Jacobson (of Greely, Colorado).

Also surviving are ten grandchildren, Sarah Beecham (of LaJunta, Colorado), Michelle Blackwell and husband Daniel (of La Junta, Colorado), Joshua Beecham (of La Veta, Colorado), Eric Beecham and wife Nichol (of Atlanta, Georgia), Crystal Tafoya and husband Daniel (of Del Norte, Colorado), Dannelle Beecham (of Tulsa), Deanne Beecham (of Tulsa), Jay Beecham and wife Amber (of Ft. Morgan, Colorado), and Kari Beecham (of Ft. Morgan, Colorado), and Jari Schiefelbein (of Sidney, Nebraska); ten great-grandchildren, Cayden, Malachi, Daniel, Alona, Lorelai, Sarina, Chayce, Kiptyn, Caden and Makenna; other relatives and friends.

Memorial contributions may be made through the funeral home to Freedom Gates Boys Ranch in Kiowa Kansas.

Remembrances may be shared with the family at www.marshallfuneralhomes.com.

Bids reviewed for bridge work in Alfalfa County

By Stacy Sanborn

The usual orders of business didn't warrant much discussion this week at the commissioners meeting in Alfalfa County. Jay Hague, Stan Tucker and Marvin Woodall approved previous meeting minutes, maintenance and operation warrants for payment, and blanket purchase orders without a hitch.

They also approved two road-crossing permits – one in District 1 for $1,000 and the other for $500 in District 2. Next, the three men looked at written quotes for bridge construction on Bridge No. 3318 in Woodall's District 3. Quotes from four individual bidders were received:

- Horn & Construction $41,000
- Dietz Welding and Bridge Construction $35,500
- Railroad Yard – Nathan Jacobs $65,000
- Kremlin Welding and Fabrication – Matt Meyer $24,500

Commissioners chose the lowest bid. No new business was brought up, but Hague did mention that they are restarting the bidding process on Cherokee's library roof repair in hopes of a better deal.

Perfect weather predicted for Kiowa's Fall Fest and Meat Cookoff Sunday

Halloween costume, pumpkin painting and carving contests, games; 'Addams Family' movie at 3 p.m.; Variety of vendors and downtown stores open; Caricature drawings by Michael Granados

By Yvonne Miller

It's all about bragging rights when it comes to smokin' and grillin' meat. This Sunday, Oct. 27, Kiowa, Kansas, holds its Fall Fest and 3rd Annual Meat Cookoff from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. The weather forecast is for a high of 61 degrees and sunshine.

Last year judges selected the ribs cooked by Trent Humphrey as the best. In the pulled meat category, Garrett Lohmann took first place. It will be fun to see if they recapture their winning title or if new champions will be named.

Get those pumpkins painted or carved – put the finishing touches on your Halloween costume – and maybe you'll win a prize. Judging is at 2:30 p.m. by the post office. Children will want to get their face painted. Brand new this year are caricature drawings of you by Burlington graduate Michael Granados for a fee. There's lots of pumpkin games.

You don't want to miss the Chief Theater's 3 p.m. showing of 'The Addam's Family,' the new 3D computer-animated comedy horror film based on the comics of the same name by Charles Addams. There is an admission charge. Some local stores will be open along Main Street, which will be dotted with vendors selling food items and much more.

After the aroma of the smoked and grilled meats wafts through downtown all afternoon, people will be ready to sample at 5 p.m. The Chamber of Commerce will serve the meat with side dishes for $5 a plate until the food disappears – hopefully not by a ghost or goblin!

ONE SWEET GAME AT KIOWA'S FALL FEST LAST YEAR – You don't have to suggest it twice to these boys to enter the donut eating contest in front of Main Street Coffee House in Kiowa during the community's Fall Fest last October. Garen Cantrell (at right) goes for it while Urijah Cruz takes a break to consider his strategy. You see, they must eat the donut off the rod without using their hands. Obviously they can't let their donut fall off the rod. Friend Luke Dunham gets right down there with his friends to watch. Kiowa's Main Street will be full of sidewalk games for youth at the 2019 Fall Fest next Sunday afternoon, Oct. 27, from 2 to 5 p.m. Photo by Yvonne Miller

FINGER LICKIN' GOOD – These were some of the mouthwatering BBQ ribs smoked by the outdoor chefs who entered the 2nd Annual Meat Cookoff at Kiowa's Fall Fest last year. Outdoor grills and smokers will be set up again this Sunday, Oct. 27, at Centennial Park on Main Street for Kiowa's Fall Fest from 2 to 5 p.m. The meat and side dishes will be served to the public beginning at 5 p.m. for $5 per plate while the goodies last. Photo by Yvonne Miller

Woods County commissioners table bids, purchase equipment

By Marione Martin

The Woods County Commissioners purchased a loader and tabled some bids for further study during their meeting Monday, Oct. 21. Commissioners Randy McMurphy, David Hamil and John Smiley were all present.

Jennifer Shafer opened three sealed bids for a 25x50 building for District 3. Erickson Steel bid $49,600; Bernie Minjares and Sons bid $120,654; and Integrity Construction bid $40,400. District 3 Commissioner Smiley wanted time to study the bids so they were tabled until next week's meeting.

Shafer then opened two bids for electric work on the building. JV Electric bid $32,560 and Northwest Electric bid $10,840. Those bids were also tabled for study.

Two bids were opened for HVAC for the building. Brandon's Comfort Solutions bid $9,646 and Fair Plumbing, Heating and Air bid $12,675. Those bids were also tabled.

The commissioners approved the purchase of a 744K John Deere Loader from Yellowhouse through Sourcewell with financing for District 3. Jason Bergdall from Yellowhouse was present to get all the paperwork signed. The purchase will be financed through Core Bank for 60 months at 3.67 percent interest.

Name changes were acknowledged for two requisitioning officers. In District 3, Juli Bowen changed her name to Juli Barker. In District 2, Gina Schaaf changed her name to Gina Smith.

An agreement with the Revised Sac & Fox Nation Juvenile Detention Center for the 2019-2020 fiscal year was approved. The commissioners tabled the agreement last week so the district attorney could look it over and approve it first.

The annual maintenance agreement and warranty extension with SecureTech Systems for the sheriff's office was approved in the amount of $1,690.50.

Woods County and the Woods County Conservation District are applying for a REAP grant for wildfire prevention equipment. If approved the grant would be used for a skid steer to cut cedars. The commissioner passed a resolution approving the application.

The commissioners voted approval to set the county employee safety meeting on Dec. 5 at the Women's Building at the fairgrounds. The courthouse will close at 11:30 a.m. on that Thursday so all employees may attend.

There was a lot of discussion on an item about providing rock and hauling rock for the Event Center. McMurphy, who chairs the meeting, said at last week's county excise board it was agreed for the county to provide rock for the parking area of the planned arena and event center east of Alva. The agreement includes paying for the rock to be trucked to the site.

McMurphy said plans are not finalized for the building areas so the amount of rock could vary. He said the estimate was for 1700 truckloads of 5/8 rock to be hauled from the Avard Rail site to the arena parking area. He first estimated that at 36,000 tons. Later he said most trucks haul 23 tons so the total amount would be 39,100 tons. He said the parking area is to be covered at a six inch depth. Due to cost, the planners ruled out concrete and asphalt. The 5/8 rock meets the criteria for horses.

McMurphy said he expects the cost to the county to be a million dollars or more. Since the county will own 50 percent of the facility, he said this commitment is needed to acquiring financing for the project.

Smiley complained about the lack of detail in the agenda item. He asked several questions and said he didn't want to commit the county to something so vague.

McMurphy admitted the amount of rock could change depending on several variables. He said the rock probably won't be needed until after July when the county begins a new fiscal year. Once begun, the arena project is expected to take 18 months of construction. He said no start date for construction has been set.

Hamil said the specifics could be put into the motion, but Smiley still had reservations. He asked if action was needed immediately, and McMurphy said it probably wouldn't matter if they waited a week.

Smiley made a motion to table the item, seconded by Hamil and approved by all three commissioners. McMurphy said he'll try to have a representative from the Alva Arena Authority attend the next meeting to explain the item further.

Woods County District 1 has been assisting the City of Alva with the reconstruction of the intersection at East Flynn and Meno. The street washed out during heavy spring rains and was temporarily repaired. Hamil said the county's part is about finished but it will be a while before the city completes the project so East Flynn will continue to be closed in that area.

Aline man charged with damaging wife's car

By Marione Martin

An Aline man has been charged with a felony after he allegedly caused over $2,500 damage to his wife's car.

Jesse Mark Patterson, 54, of Aline, is charged with malicious injury to property, a felony. This crime is punishable by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for up to two years or a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by both fine and imprisonment.

Court records show on Oct. 5 Alfalfa County Deputy TJ Rockenbach received a report that someone had deliberately backed into a vehicle and then left the scene. He went to the location on West Broadway in Aline where he saw a red Chevrolet four door car with severe front end damage. He spoke to the victim Bonita Patterson and her daughter Brittany Conway.

Mrs. Patterson said her husband Jesse had been drinking and was in the living room when she came out of the bedroom. She told him to go to bed which he refused. She said he was acting belligerent, and she went to her daughter's house across town.

Mrs. Patterson stated that her son called and told her Jesse had backed her car into the dumpster and then got in his pickup and slammed into the front of her car. Mrs. Patterson told Rockenbach her husband was intoxicated and that he will leave the property and she does not know where he goes.

Brittany Conway said her stepdad came home from working on her house and started being loud and yelling random things. She said he finally passed out in the chair in the living room. She said her mom went to wake him up and tell him to go to bed. He started arguing and laughing like it was a joke. She said her mother left the house.

Conway said her brother Justin Conway went outside to pull the keys out of the vehicles but didn't get all of them. She said they heard a loud bang and went outside where they saw Jesse had backed Bonita's car into the dumpster and then pulled it up on the north side of the house. She said Jesse got out and went to get some things. Her brother ran and took the keys out of the car. She said her brother told her and his girlfriend to go to her sister's house.

Deputy Rockenbach talked to Justin Conway who said Jesse had been drinking while working on his sister's house across town. He said after they returned to his mom and Jesse's house, Jesse went inside and passed out in his recliner. Then Bonita came out and told him to go to bed. He said Jesse became upset and his mom left the house. Conway said he told his younger sister and his girlfriend to go with his mom, and he was going to stay at the house to see what Jesses was doing.

Conway said Jesse tried to leave in Bonita's car and backed into the dumpster, breaking out the back glass. He then parked the car on the north side of the house, found a spare key to his pickup and again tried to leave. He backed into the front of Bonita's car, smashing the front of it.

Conway said after Jesse hit the car, he left the residence and drove to Cleo Springs to get gas at the Jiffy Trip. Conway said he and his girlfriend located Jesse at the Jiffy Trip and got the keys to the pickup away from him. Then they waited for a Major County deputy to arrive.

Rockenbach took photos of the car, observing the rear window had been shattered. He found shards of glass at the base of the dumpster. He saw damage to the front of the car where the hood had buckled, pushing the radiator back and damaging it. He also took pictures of the silver Dodge Ram 1500 Jess was driving which had damage to the driver side rear bumper as well as red paint transfer.

A felony warrant has been issued for Jesse Patterson. Online records show on Oct. 8 in Major County, Patterson was charged with a misdemeanor of public intoxication.

Carl's Capitol Comments

By State Rep. Carl Newton

The Oklahoma Department of Transportation has increased the speed limit on U.S. Highway 412 between the U.S. Highway 281 junction (Bouse Junction) and the U.S. Highway 60 junction north of Fairview to 70 miles per hour. That makes the speed limit from Woodward to Highway 60 north of Fairview 70 mph, the Highway 281 Junction itself remains at 65 mph. The final decision came from the Oklahoma Dept. of Transportation earlier this month.

This should increase travel into Northwest Oklahoma. U.S. Highway 412 is a major crossroads across Oklahoma, it extends from the tip of the panhandle to the very Northeastern Corner of the State and extends into Joplin, Missouri. The vast majority of the speed limit is 70 mph across most of the state and this recent addition adds to those miles. This speed limit change was only done after extensive safety studies by the Oklahoma Dept. of Transportation. These studies include general speed studies, traffic flow patterns, highway engineering, and past accident studies. I requested these studies be completed earlier this year. These studies are necessary to comply with state and federal regulations as this is a US Highway. Without these considerations we could jeopardize funding and more importantly lives.

Also at the Transportation Commission's meeting, we heard details of the Department of Transportation's updated 8-year construction work plan for Fiscal Years 2020-2027. One of the goals is to resurface approximately 10% of the highways that have rough surfaces. This is an increase over previous years where most of the funds have been allocated to repairing our deficient bridges. The goal of the ODOT is to increase this percentage when we catch up on bridge repairs.

ODOT and our local commissioners and engineers have worked hard to decrease the number of structurally deficient bridges across the state. Earlier this year, it was announced that Oklahoma has achieved a higher national ranking in decreasing the number of structurally deficient bridges, moving to 13th from 17th. The state is on track to have less than 1 percent of all ODOT-maintained bridges rated structurally deficient by 2020, which will put Oklahoma in the Top 10 for the highest percentage of structurally sufficient highway bridges. Keep in mind, however, that this is not the same as our local bridges maintained by cities and counties. ODOT has jurisdiction over 6,800 bridges on the highway system, while cities and counties are responsible for 16,000 bridges.

Last year, I was pleased that we as a Legislature were able to fully fund the Department of Transportation's 8-year plan, appropriating $168.9 million to transportation, an increase of almost $3 million from the amount appropriated in Fiscal Year 2019. Transportation also received almost $721.7 million in dedicated funds, which are taken off the top of the state budget before appropriations from the General Revenue Fund are divided among agencies. This stems back to 2003 when the state was not allocating enough transportation dollars to match federal funds. The dedicated off-the-top money fixed that problem. Transportation also received $53 million in inter-agency funds and almost $645 million in other funds – the bulk of those being federal dollars.

Also under the ODOT umbrella, we have the CIRB program for county roads and bridges, which is administered through the efforts of counties' Circuit Engineering Districts, county commissioners and ODOT engineers. While ODOT has an 8-year plan, CIRB has a 5-year plan. This past year, the Legislature restored $30 million to CIRB to support the maintenance of our county roads and bridges system, bringing the total of dedicated funds for CIRB this year alone to $123 million.

For Fiscal Years 2019-2023, the CIRB fund had $686.5 million. When combined with federal, state and other dollars, the total is $877.2 million. The CIRB five-year plan includes replacement or rehabilitation of 375 county bridges statewide, and more than 800 miles of county roads to be improved.

Thanks again for allowing me to serve Northwest Oklahoma. Please feel free to contact me at carl.newton@okhouse.gov, or call me at 405-557-7339. May the Lord bless you and our great state.

South Barber band is gifted funds for a needed baritone saxophone

Combined $4,000 gift from General Store and Monty Thompson Foundation

By Yvonne Miller

If you attended the South Barber Jr/Sr High School Spring Concert, you may remember lots of laughter as longtime band director Jill Daughhete literally had her shoe sort of explode and fall off in pieces. With her typical humor, Daughhete shared the news with her audience.

What you probably didn't know was that, like the director's shoe, some of the keys on the old baritone saxophone also fell off during that performance. Earlier in the year an instrument repairman tried to fix the bari sax, but said the poor, old horn was finished, the director said.

She explained that last year she had a student move in that played the alto sax and said he would love to play the bari sax. The band had two old ones – one sax was beyond repair and the other worked well enough and the student loved playing it – even had a solo ready to go to contest. Then the bari sax crashed and he had to use his alto sax instead. The repairman had the bari sax once again limping along until the concert when the keys clanged to the floor.

Daughhete said she lost three tuba players in one year and had none coming up from the lower grades.

"The bari sax helps round out the sound of the high school band covering the bass part that was no longer covered by tubas. We just sound so much fuller with that bass part being covered by the bari sax!"

When she priced a new baritone sax, Daughhete found the cost was $4,000. She applied for half the money from the Monty Thompson Continuing Education Foundation and was approved. So she requested the other half from Kiowa's General Store and received the gift.

"These are two wonderful sources in our community to support our school, teachers, and students! I felt like I had won the lottery when we got the funding and believe it or not, the music store delivered the horn the very next day! I am so grateful for the help to buy the bari sax and love hearing ALL of the notes playing on the horn," Daughhete said.

Superintendent Dr. Mylo Miller also expressed his thanks to both organizations for the generous gifts. He said that so far this year, the Monty Thompson Foundation has given donations to support South Barber students totaling $7,239.

JCCC inmates charged with contraband

By Marione Martin

Two inmates at James Crabtree Correctional Center (JCCC) in Helena are facing felony charges after they were allegedly found with contraband.

Alfalfa County court documents show on Aug. 20 at about 8 a.m., Correctional Farm Manager Rick Ryel saw two inmates running north of the farm office. The inmates were identified as Jarim R. Dunsmoor and Joey D. Grant. The two went out of sight behind the two buildings to the north of the office and returned seconds later with Dunsmoor carrying a trash bag.

Ryel told them to come to him and says Dunsmoor threw the trash bag on top of the air conditioner of the north farm office. Ryel told Dunsmoor to retrieve the trash bag and come to the farm office with him. The trash bag was found to contain bundles wrapped in black electrical tape. The inmates and the contents of the bag were turned over to Sgt. S. Steinwand.

The contents of the bag were identified as three lighters, three pounds nine ounces of tobacco, and one pound 11 ounces of marijuana. Both inmates were escorted to the JCCC holding cell and the contraband was secured in the evidence locker of the JCCC control room.

On Oct. 18 Jarim R. Dunsmoor, 32, was charged with bringing contraband drugs into a penal institution, a felony. He was also charged with possession of contraband tobacco into penal institution, a misdemeanor.

Joey D. Grant, 39, was charged with bringing contraband drugs into a penal institution, a felony.

The felony charges are punishable by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for one to five years, or a fine of $100 to $1,000, or both such fine and imprisonment.

The misdemeanor charge is punishable by imprisonment up to one year or a fine up to $500, or both.

Medicine Lodge defeats Argonia/Attica 36-16

Josh Bowman, first year starting quarterback for the Medicine Lodge Indians, is doing incredibly well this football season. He has strong numbers: Passing of 67/126 for 930, 14 touchdowns and four interceptions, 53.2 completions, 362 yards rushing, 44 yards receiving (one reception), 1,328 total yards (221/game).

The Medicine Lodge High School Indians beat their opponents from Argonia/Attica 36-16 at their game last Friday night. The Medicine Lodge Indians moved to 4-3 on the season with a big win over the Argonia/Attica Titans Friday night. The win also moved the Indians to 3-1 in district play with one more game to go before the state playoffs start.

The Indians dug themselves a hole early, giving up 16 first quarter points to the Titans. Medicine Lodge fought their way back into the game, scoring a touchdown in the first quarter followed by a second touchdown in the second quarter. The game was 16-14 at halftime with the Indians trailing.

In the third quarter, Medicine Lodge turned up the heat on A&A, scoring 22 points and turning the Titans over three times. The big third quarter was enough to finish off A&A as neither team scored in the final period. When the final seconds ran off the clock and the fireworks started, the Indians had a 36-16 win.

The win was the second in a row for the Indians and came on a night when nine senior football players and their parents were recognized for their commitment over the years.

Medicine Lodge will travel to Caldwell Friday for the final game of the regular season.

Song by The Alternative Routes - 2014

"We are love, we are one
We are how we treat each other when the day is done.
We are peace, we are war
We are how we treat each other and nothing more."

Whether in our office treating patients or out in the real world, I have always thought the words of this song exemplifies what we should be - let's all try it.

Oklahoma clinic asks high court to halt abortion law

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An Oklahoma abortion clinic has asked the state Supreme Court to review a judge's decision to uphold a ban on a second-trimester abortion procedure.

The Tulsa Women's Reproductive Clinic requested an injunction to put the law on hold, telling the high court Monday that the law would be detrimental for women, The Oklahoman reported.

The 2015 law aims to restrict the use of instruments in dilation and evacuation abortions after 14 weeks of pregnancy, except when needed to save the woman's life or prevent a serious risk to her health. It was put on hold while the legal challenge was

Oklahoma County District Judge Cindy Truong upheld the law in July.

Rabia Muqaddam, the attorney for the Tulsa clinic, said Truong's decision was rogue. Muqaddam is also an attorney with the Center for Reproductive Rights, a New York-based abortion rights group whose challenge to the law was rebuffed this summer.

Thousands of women would be affected if the law goes into effect, Muqaddam said. She said the Tulsa clinic does not perform abortions later than 16 weeks, so most of the concern is between 14 and 16 weeks.

Oklahoma Assistant Solicitor General Zach West said the law does not leave women without options, noting that women can still get suction abortions up to 16 weeks.

The Oklahoma Supreme Court has not said if it will review Truong's ruling. Brant Elmore, a state Supreme Court referee, said justices can take 10 days or more to decide if the law will go into effect.

Numbers released by the state Department of Health show nearly 7% of the about 5,000 abortions performed in Oklahoma in 2018 were performed using this method.

The state's Republican-controlled Legislature approved the ban, and it was signed into law by then-Gov. Mary Fallin.

Oklahoma prison officials say cellphone jamming would help

By Sean Murphy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Thousands of illegal cellphones are making it into the hands of prison inmates who use the devices to commit crimes, but prison officials testified Monday that they're prohibited from using one of the best tools to stop it — jamming technology.

Prison officials from Oklahoma and South Carolina testified about the effectiveness of cellphone-jamming technology before an Oklahoma Senate committee. Federal law bans the use of such technology by state agencies, and it is opposed by the wireless industry.

Oklahoma seized more than 5,200 contraband cellphones from inmates last year. While that's a decline from about 7,500 seized a year earlier, the problem remains a major one, said Mike Carpenter, chief of security for the Oklahoma Department of Corrections.

Carpenter said a fight between rival gangs at an Oklahoma prison last month quickly escalated through the use of contraband cellphones into melees at several other prisons. One inmate was killed and more than a dozen were wounded.

"Do I think (cellphone) jamming would work? Absolutely," Carpenter said.

The wireless industry opposes the use of cellphone-jamming technology inside prisons, mostly because of concerns that it would also block signals for legitimate users, said Gerard Keegan, a spokesman for the Cellular Telecommunications and Internet Association.

He says the group instead supports a "managed access" system in which technology is used to determine which signals inside a prison are from contraband cellphones so that steps can be taken to disable those targeted phones. He said the group also supports continued testing of cellphone-jamming techniques.

Federal legislation to allow states to use jamming technology is pending in the House and Senate.

"My suggestion is simple," U.S. Sen. James Lankford, R-Oklahoma, said on the floor of the U.S. Senate earlier this year. "Let's jam cellphones in prison for the protection of our guards, for the protection of our families, and to be able to block criminal activity from happening inside our prisons."

Last year, federal officials tested micro-jamming technology at a federal prison in Cumberland, Maryland, and said they were able to shut down phone signals inside a prison cell, while devices about 20 feet (6 meters) away worked normally.

Pompeo plans to visit Wichita for event with Ivanka Trump

By John Hanna

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo plans to visit Wichita later this week for an event about workforce development with Ivanka Trump, an appearance that could raise fellow Republicans' hopes that he'll run for the Senate next year.

It's Pompeo's fourth visit to Kansas this year and it comes less than seven weeks after gave a lecture at Kansas State University last month that intensified speculation about his plans, though he didn't directly address it in his remarks and has remained coy for months.

Pompeo plans to participate in an American Workforce Policy Advisory Board round-table discussion Thursday at Wichita State University Tech about workforce development with Republican Rep. Ron Estes, the congressman's office confirmed. The board is co-chaired by Ivanka Trump.

Estes said in a statement that the event will highlight the university's status as a national leader in workforce development and further a "focus on growing our economy." Kelly Arnold, a former Kansas Republican Party chairman, said the visit puts the university's work in the spotlight for the Trump administration, but it also is a good event for a potential Senate candidate.

"There's still a lot of availability for Secretary Pompeo to make a decision on whether he wanted to come back here and run for Senate, and I think Republicans would welcome him into this race," Arnold said.

Pompeo previously held Estes' Wichita-area seat in Congress, and many Republicans view him as the ideal candidate to replace Republican Sen. Pat Roberts, who is not seeking a fifth term.

Republicans have not lost a U.S. Senate race in Kansas since 1932, but some party leaders fear that Kris Kobach will emerge from the crowded primary field after losing last year's race for governor to Democrat Laura Kelly. Kobach, the former Kansas secretary of state, has built a national profile by advocating tough immigration policies and has alienated GOP moderates.

Besides Kobach, other Republican candidates include western Kansas Rep. Roger Marshall, Kansas Senate President Susan Wagle, of Wichita, and Kansas City-area businessman Dave Lindstrom, a former Kansas City Chiefs player.

The Democrats who are running include state Sen. Barbara Bollier, a retired Kansas City-area anesthesiologist, and Usha Reddi, the mayor pro tem of the northeast Kansas city of Manhattan. Bollier has received the endorsement of former U.S. Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius, a Democrat who also served two terms as Kansas' governor.

Oklahoma county settles inmate death suit for $12.5 million

ENID, Okla. (AP) — Officials in northern Oklahoma have agreed to pay $12.5 million to settle a lawsuit over the death of an inmate in a restraint chair at the county jail.

According to court records, the Garfield County Board of Commissioners took the action over the June 8, 2016, death of 58-year-old inmate Anthony Huff.

Huff was arrested for public intoxication. Jail staff placed him in the restraint chair, where he was later found unresponsive and pronounced dead.

The lawsuit accused officials of negligence and of violating Huff's constitutional rights. In a statement Monday, the board says it "deeply regrets" Huff's death and the settlement is "reasonable under the circumstances."

Former jail administrator Jennifer Niles pleaded guilty to second-degree manslaughter in Huff's death and was sentenced to 55 hours in jail.

US stock indexes close lower on mixed company earnings

By Alex Veiga

A choppy day of trading on Wall Street ended Tuesday with stocks closing lower after a sell-off in technology stocks strengthened toward the end of the day.

That late-afternoon burst of selling erased modest gains for the market, which was coming off two weeks of gains.

The major indexes wavered for much of the day between small gains and losses as investors weighed a mixed batch of earnings reports from McDonald's, Procter & Gamble and other big companies.

Weak profits and sales pulled shares in McDonald's lower. Travelers sank after the insurance company reported earnings that fell far short of analysts' forecasts. Meanwhile, traders bid up shares in Procter & Gamble after the consumer products maker raised its profit forecast for the year following surprisingly good third quarter earnings.

"We're still waiting to see how earnings season shakes out," said Karyn Cavanaugh, senior markets strategist at Voya Investment Management. "There have been some winners and some losers. There's been a couple of misses."

The S&P 500 index fell 10.73 points, or 0.4%, to 2,995.99. The index spent most of the day at or above 3,000 and briefly climbed 0.3% before the late-afternoon slide.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average dropped 39.54 points, or 0.2%, to 26,788.10.

The Nasdaq, which is heavily weighted with technology stocks, bore the brunt of the selling, losing 58.69 points, or 0.7%, to 8,104.30.

Smaller company stocks fared better than the rest of the market. The Russell 2000 index added 0.73 points, or 0.1%, to 1,550.87.

Bond prices rose. The yield on the 10-year Treasury note, which is a benchmark for the interest rates banks charge for mortgages and other loans, fell to 1.77% from 1.79% late Monday.

Investors have been shifting their focus to corporate earnings reports as they wait for developments in the trade negotiations between the U.S. and China.

Optimism over the latest round of talks, which for now have at least prevented the costly conflict from escalating further, helped put investors in a buying mood in recent weeks. The benchmark S&P 500 has notched weekly gains the past two weeks.

Analysts came into this latest earnings season expecting profits to decline overall for companies in the S&P 500. But with about 15% of companies in the index reporting so far, results have been surprisingly positive.

Earnings growth fell slightly in the first and second quarters, according to data from FactSet, which was better than Wall Street's expectation at the start of those reporting seasons.

"The market really moves on earnings," Cavanaugh said. "If we see a negative year-over-year earnings growth quarter, it's going to give the market a little bit of pause."

While some of the company earnings on Tuesday were surprisingly good, a few large companies gave investors disappointing results that tipped the market into the red.

McDonald's slid 5% after reporting that its third-quarter profit and revenue fell short of Wall Street's forecast. It was one of the big decliners among companies that rely on consumer spending.

Travelers sank 8.3% after the insurance company reported earnings that fell far short of analysts' forecast. The stock led the financial sector slide.

Companies with stronger quarterly results fared better.

Biogen soared 26.1% after the biotechnology giant handily beat Wall Street's third-quarter profit and revenue forecasts. It also said it will ask regulators to approve a treatment for Alzheimer's. The company's gains gave a strong shot to the broader health care sector.

Procter & Gamble rose 2.6% on its solid quarterly report card.

The busy week of earnings continues Wednesday with reports from Boeing, Caterpillar and Microsoft. American Airlines, Twitter and Amazon will report on Thursday.

Technology companies accounted for most of the selling Tuesday. Microsoft dropped 1.5%. Payment processors Visa and Mastercard also fell, shedding 3.2% and 4.8%, respectively.

Communications services stocks also helped pull the market lower. Netflix led the slide, dropping 4.1%. Facebook lost 3.9% following news that a state-level antitrust investigation into the social networking giant now has the backing of a bipartisan group of 47 attorneys general.

Benchmark crude oil rose 90 cents to settle at $54.21 a barrel. Brent crude oil, the international standard, gained 74 cents to close at $59.70 a barrel. Wholesale gasoline was unchanged at $1.61 per gallon. Heating oil was unchanged at $1.94 per gallon. Natural gas rose 3 cents to $2.27 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Gold fell 70 cents to $1,481.70 per ounce, silver fell 9 cents to $17.44 per ounce and copper fell 2 cents to $2.62 per pound.

The dollar fell to 108.46 Japanese yen from 108.58 yen on Monday. The euro weakened to $1.1124 from $1.1146.

Stocks in Europe finished higher after British lawmakers on Tuesday approved Prime Minister Boris Johnson's Brexit deal in principle. However, they also rejected the government's fast-track attempt to pass the bill within days.

British Prime Minister Boris Johnson says he will "pause" the government's planned Brexit legislation.

Lawsuit: ICE agent threatened immigrant, raped her for years

By Chris Ehrmann

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — An immigration agent threatened a Honduran woman living in Connecticut with deportation if she didn't have sex with him, then raped her as often as four times a week for seven years, impregnating her three times, the woman says in a federal lawsuit.

The woman, identified in the lawsuit only as Jane Doe, sued the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement and former ICE agent Wilfredo Rodriguez on Saturday. She is seeking $10 million in damages.

"My only comment is that my client had a choice, cooperate with ICE or be deported with her family," George Kramer, the woman's lawyer, said in an email. "She remains in a very fragile psychological state. She is not only seeking compensation for the physical and emotional damage she suffered but to change the way those who are cooperating with ICE are treated by those in a position of power and who often wield total control over the ability to remain in the United States."

An ICE spokesman said he couldn't comment on litigation but confirmed Rodriguez no longer works for the agency. Homeland Security didn't immediately return a call seeking comment.

It was not immediately clear whether Rodriguez had a lawyer to speak for him, and a phone listing for him could not immediately be found.

Tom Carson, a spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office in Connecticut, said he could not comment on whether there has been or will be a criminal investigation.

The woman first met Rodriguez in 2006 after her brother was arrested for entering the U.S. illegally, according to the lawsuit.

Rodriguez found out she was also living in the country illegally and said that to avoid being deported, she had to become an informant and help the agency locate criminals ripe for deportation. She did her job, according to the lawsuit, pointing ICE to three men living in the U.S. illegally who had stabbed her husband.

But that wasn't enough for Rodriguez, the lawsuit indicates.

At one point, while trying to locate someone in 2007, Rodriguez told the woman to go to a motel and tried to have sex with her, according to the lawsuit. When she refused, she says in the lawsuit, he covered her mouth, threw her on the bed, put his gun next to her and said that if she opened her mouth, he would use it. Then, she says, he raped her.

He called himself the "wolf" and said he was the reason she and her family weren't deported, she says in the lawsuit.

The woman alleges she first became pregnant by Rodriguez in 2007, then again in 2009 and a third time in 2013. She had an abortion each time, she said in the lawsuit, and Rodriguez paid for one of them.

"There was no question" that was she was pregnant by Rodriguez and not her husband, the lawsuit said.

The abuse continued unabated, she says.

He made her perform oral sex on him and participate in "abhorrent sexual behavior," the lawsuit states. He would constantly remind her that he was the "wolf" and threaten to kill her and her family, she says.

She attempted suicide four times, the lawsuit says.

In 2014, while working at her job in construction, she received a call. It was Rodriguez, demanding to see her, and she knew it would be for sex, she says. She was so shaken that she fell off a ladder after hanging up and seriously injured her neck, back and ribs.

She underwent surgery and tried to use it as an excuse not to see Rodriguez — but it didn't deter him, the lawsuit says.

Later, he told her that he was leaving the agency but that if she told anyone what happened, "she and her family would pay," according to the lawsuit.

The woman finally told her story last year when her father, living in the U.S. and fearing deportation because of her friendliness with ICE, applied for asylum. She opened up to an agent who approached her about her father's application, the lawsuit says.

The agent, she says, suggested she consult an attorney.

Police chief skipping Trump's 1st Chicago visit as president

By Don Babwin

CHICAGO (AP) — Donald Trump's appearance next week at a police chiefs conference will be his first visit as president to Chicago, a city he has ridiculed for years. The city's top cop plans to skip the speech, even though he's hosting the event.

Police Superintendent Eddie Johnson's apparent snub of Trump's speech Monday at the International Association of Chiefs of Police Conference is the latest chapter in a long and contentious relationship between the Republican president and the nation's third-largest city, a Democratic stronghold.

"The values of the people of Chicago are more important to him than anything that could be discussed at that speech," Johnson's spokesman, Anthony Guglielmi, said shortly after the White House announced Trump's planned address at the conference.

Guglielmi added that Johnson will be hosting and attending several events at the conference.

Since his campaign, Trump has repeatedly singled out the city, both for what he says is its unwillingness to get tough on criminals and what he complains is a willingness to coddle immigrants living in the country illegally. His mere presence in the city prompted him to leave without making a speech at a campaign rally in 2016 after protesters and supporters clashed even before he made it to the stage.

Even before that, he drew the ire of city officials when he attached 20-foot-tall letters spelling "TRUMP" on the side of his Trump International Hotel and Tower. Trump took great pleasure when then-Mayor Rahm Emanuel concluded there was nothing he could do about the letters, no matter how "architecturally tasteless" they were.

Trump blamed the Chicago Tribune's architecture critic for stirring up opposition about the signage, calling him a "third-rate architectural critic." It was a precursor to his more recent ridicule of House Speaker Nancy Pelosi as either a "third-rate" or "third-grade" politician.

More recently, Trump has used the city's surge in gun violence to call for a crackdown on criminals.

"What the hell is going on in Chicago?" he asked at a 2017 rally in Florida. "There are those who say that Afghanistan is safer than Chicago, OK?... You know what's wrong with Chicago? Weak, ineffective politicians. Democrats ..."

In another rally that year, Trump singled out Emanuel, telling the audience: "Better tell that mayor to get tough because it's not working what they're doing."

Trump has even suggested that Chicago should embrace the stop-and-frisk policing method in which large numbers of people are temporarily detained, questioned and sometimes searched for drugs even after it was deemed unconstitutional.

He has spoken numerous times about an unnamed Chicago police officer who lamented that the department could stop the violence if they let officers do their job. That story, depending on the telling, has the officer saying police could clean things up in "immediately," "in one week," or "two days."

Trump tweeted in early 2017 that he would "send in the Feds" if "Chicago doesn't fix the horrible 'carnage' going on." Johnson responded by saying he didn't know what Trump was suggesting he was going to do, and Emanuel rejected the president's offer if that offer was to send in the National Guard.

The president has made false assertions about gun violence in Chicago, starting with his contention during his campaign that the city has the toughest gun laws in the United States. By the time Trump the candidate was making that assertion in 2015, many of the city's gun laws had either been overturned or gutted. Then, shortly after he was inaugurated in 2017, he claimed two people were fatally shot during former President Barack Obama's farewell address a few weeks earlier.

The Tribune reported that its own database showed "no slayings for about 24 hours before or after Obama's speech."

A reference to the city made it into a statement former Trump attorney Michael Cohen released earlier this year before an appearance in front of the U.S. House. He spoke of Trump driving through a struggling Chicago neighborhood and remarking that only black people could live that way.

Chicago also has taken a leading role in the president's battle with so-called sanctuary cities. After a federal appeals court ruled that then-Attorney General Jeff Sessions could not tie the distribution of federal grant money to cities' willingness to cooperate with immigration authorities, a federal judge ruled in favor of the city in its lawsuit over the Justice Department's attempt to tie the money to new immigration requirements, including giving federal agents access to local jails. But just a few months ago, a federal appeals judge ruled that the Justice Department could give preferential treatment in awarding community policing grants to cities that cooperate with immigration authorities.

When Trump later said he was strongly considering placing "Illegal immigrants in Sanctuary Cities only," Emanuel quickly shot back that Chicago would "welcome these migrants with open arms."

Johnson's announcement about the conference comes just days after he told reporters that he was ordering an internal investigation of himself after he was found asleep in his SUV at a stop light. Officers let him drive home without a roadside sobriety test. Mayor Lori Lightfoot said Johnson acknowledged to her that he'd had "a couple drinks with dinner."
